

LeadPulse

Turn Business Leads Into Customers

Customer Persona & Funnel Strategy

Digital Marketing Internship — Module 1

Devnexes Digital Solutions

Prepared by: Ehtesham

LeadPulse is a simple SaaS-based lead management and marketing analytics tool for small businesses. This document defines LeadPulse's ideal customer profile, three core buyer personas, and a complete TOFU-MOFU-BOFU marketing funnel strategy to guide the next stages of the 30-day growth marketing campaign.

BUYER PERSONAS

3

distinct target profiles

PAIN POINTS MAPPED

8

core customer problems

FUNNEL STAGES

TOFU / MOFU / BOFU

full-funnel coverage

CONTENT MAPPINGS

9

stage-matched content ideas

- Project Title: LeadPulse – Customer Persona & Funnel Strategy
- Software Product: LeadPulse

LeadPulse is a simple SaaS-based lead management and marketing analytics tool built for small businesses. It brings together leads generated from Facebook, Instagram, Google Ads, WhatsApp, and website forms into a single dashboard, so business owners can see exactly which marketing channels generate leads, which leads turn into paying customers, and where potential customers are being lost along the way.

The Problem It Solves

Most small businesses now run marketing on several channels at once, but they track results in separate places — ad platform dashboards, WhatsApp chats, notebooks, or scattered spreadsheets. This makes it almost impossible to know which channel is actually worth the money, and leads frequently fall through the cracks because there is no single place to follow up on them. LeadPulse solves this by centralizing lead capture and reporting into one simple, non-technical dashboard.

Target Market

Small businesses that actively generate leads through digital marketing but lack the tools or time to organize and measure those leads — including local service businesses, e-commerce stores, small agencies, real estate businesses, clinics, and education/training providers.

Main Marketing Objective

To generate qualified free-trial sign-ups from small business owners and marketers who are currently managing leads manually or across disconnected tools, and to convert those trials into paying LeadPulse subscribers.

Why Customer Persona & Funnel Strategy Matter for LeadPulse

LeadPulse is bought by more than one type of decision-maker — a solo business owner, a marketing manager, and a startup founder or agency owner each experience the same underlying problem differently, and each needs different language, proof points, and channels to be convinced. A clear persona and funnel strategy ensures that every piece of marketing content speaks to the right mindset at the right stage of the buying journey, instead of using generic messaging that fails to convert any of them effectively. This foundation also directly shapes the content calendar, paid ad targeting, and email sequences planned in the internship's later modules.

ICP Category	Definition
Business Type	Small businesses that actively generate customer leads through digital marketing but struggle to organize and measure those leads
Business Size	Solo owner up to approximately 25 employees
Industry	Local service businesses, e-commerce stores, small marketing agencies, real estate, clinics/appointment-based businesses, education & training providers
Geographic Market	Urban and suburban small businesses in markets with active digital ad spend (e.g., Pakistan, and other English-language SMB markets)
Business Revenue Level	See Strategic Assumption below — approximately Rs 5M-Rs 50M in annual revenue: enough to run paid ads across multiple channels, but not enough to justify enterprise CRM or analytics platforms
Decision Maker	The business owner (solo decision) for smaller businesses; a marketing manager or executive who recommends the tool and the owner approves for slightly larger businesses
Marketing Channels Currently Used	Facebook and Instagram ads, Google Ads, WhatsApp Business, website contact forms, and manual spreadsheet tracking
Common Business Problems	Leads scattered across platforms, no centralized tracking, missed follow-ups, and no clear view of which channel drives paying customers
Technology Awareness	Comfortable with everyday digital tools such as social media and ad managers, but not power users of complex CRM or analytics software; they want something simple and visual
Buying Motivation	Save time, stop losing leads, prove which advertising spend is worth keeping, and appear more organized and professional to customers
Buying Barriers	Price sensitivity, fear of a complicated setup process, past bad experience with bulky CRMs, and skepticism about moving away from free spreadsheets

Strategic Assumption: Revenue-level figures above are illustrative estimates used to size the target segment, not confirmed market data.

Best-Fit Segments and Why

- Local service businesses, real estate, and clinics — run continuous multi-channel lead generation (ads, WhatsApp, forms) and feel the pain of scattered leads daily, making them the clearest fit for LeadPulse.
- Small agencies — regularly manage paid campaigns for themselves or clients and need channel-level performance data to prove ROI, making them a strong secondary fit.
- Education and training businesses — experience acute lead-tracking pain around enrollment cycles and inquiry follow-ups, making them a good supporting segment.
- E-commerce businesses — often already rely on their e-commerce platform's built-in analytics, so they are a lower initial priority — a partial fit rather than a core one.

LeadPulse is not targeted at every small business — it is built specifically for businesses that generate leads across multiple channels and need a single, simple place to see what is working.

Sana Malik
Persona 1 · Small Business Owner
AGE RANGE	BUSINESS TYPE	BUSINESS SIZE	LOCATION
32-45	Local service business	3-10 employees	Urban metro
Professional Background	Runs day-to-day operations herself; handles marketing part-time with no dedicated marketing staff
Goals	Grow a steady stream of paying customers; spend ad budget wisely; spend less time on admin
Major Pain Points	Leads arrive via Facebook, Instagram, WhatsApp, and the website with no way to tell which one brings paying customers
Daily Challenges	Juggling operations, marketing, and customer service with very limited time for admin work
Current Marketing Activities	Occasionally boosts Facebook/Instagram posts, runs small Google Ads campaigns, replies to leads personally on WhatsApp
Technology Usage	Smartphone-first; uses Facebook Ads Manager and WhatsApp Business; minimal other software
Buying Motivation	Wants a simple dashboard that shows where her customers come from without training
Objections / Barriers	“Do I really need another app?”; cost concerns; fear of a learning curve
How LeadPulse Helps	Centralizes leads from every channel into one simple dashboard, sends follow-up reminders, and shows which channel converts best
Preferred Channels	WhatsApp, Facebook/Instagram, short explainer videos
Relevant Marketing Message	“Stop losing leads across five different apps — see all your customers in one place with LeadPulse.”

Bilal Ahmed
Persona 2 - Digital Marketing Manager
AGE RANGE	BUSINESS TYPE	BUSINESS SIZE	LOCATION
26-35	Small agency / growing local business	10-25 employees	Urban market
Professional Background	2-5 years of marketing experience; manages ad campaigns across platforms; reports to the owner or CEO
Goals	Prove marketing ROI, optimize ad spend across channels, and deliver clear performance reports
Major Pain Points	Manually pulling data from Facebook Ads Manager, Google Ads, and spreadsheets to build reports; hard to prove which channel drives real conversions rather than just clicks
Daily Challenges	Managing multiple ad accounts alongside constant reporting requests from management
Current Marketing Activities	Runs paid campaigns on Facebook and Google; tracks results in spreadsheets or dashboard tools
Technology Usage	Comfortable with ad platforms and basic analytics tools; a moderate power user
Buying Motivation	Wants a lightweight tool that consolidates lead-to-customer data without needing a data analyst
Objections / Barriers	Needs integration with existing ad accounts; concerned about switching cost and team learning curve; wants more advanced reporting long-term
How LeadPulse Helps	Automatically pulls leads from ad channels and website forms, tracks conversion by channel, and generates ready-made reports for management
Preferred Channels	LinkedIn, email, industry blogs and webinars
Relevant Marketing Message	“Prove which channel actually converts — LeadPulse turns scattered ad data into one clear report.”

Ayesha Raza
Persona 3 - Startup Founder / Agency Owner
AGE RANGE	BUSINESS TYPE	BUSINESS SIZE	LOCATION
28-40	Small agency / early-stage startup	1-15 employees	Urban / remote-first
Professional Background	Entrepreneurial; manages growth and client relationships while wearing many operational hats
Goals	Scale customer acquisition efficiently and present a professional lead-tracking system to clients or investors
Major Pain Points	Managing lead data across multiple client accounts or growth channels with no easy way to show clear lead-to-customer numbers
Daily Challenges	Balancing sales, client management, and reporting with a small team
Current Marketing Activities	Runs multi-channel campaigns (Facebook, Google, LinkedIn) for the business itself or for clients
Technology Usage	Tech-savvy; already uses several SaaS tools and expects integrations
Buying Motivation	Needs a scalable, presentable dashboard to show lead performance to clients or investors
Objections / Barriers	Wants multi-client or multi-workspace support; concerned about pricing at scale and integration depth
How LeadPulse Helps	Provides a clean, shareable dashboard of lead sources and conversion performance for client or investor reporting
Preferred Channels	LinkedIn, founder communities, email
Relevant Marketing Message	“Give your clients — or your board — a clear picture of lead performance, powered by LeadPulse.”

Pain Point	Why It Happens	Business Impact	How LeadPulse Solves It
Leads scattered across platforms	Leads arrive via Facebook, Instagram, Google Ads, WhatsApp, and website forms with no shared system	Missed leads and slower response times, resulting in lost revenue	Centralizes all leads from every channel into one dashboard
No centralized lead tracking	Most small businesses rely on spreadsheets or memory instead of a dedicated system	Inconsistent follow-up and duplicated effort	Automatically imports and organizes leads in a single tracker
Difficulty identifying profitable channels	Ad platforms report clicks and leads, not which leads actually became paying customers	Budget gets wasted on underperforming channels	Tracks channel-level conversion so real ROI is visible
Missed follow-ups	No reminder system exists when leads are tracked manually	Lost sales and a poor customer experience	Provides automated follow-up reminders and lead status tracking
Poor conversion visibility	There is no link between a raw “lead” and a confirmed “customer”	Owners cannot tell which marketing efforts actually pay off	Shows a full funnel view from lead to converted customer
Lack of performance reporting	Data lives separately across platforms with no unified report	Time wasted assembling manual reports and delayed decisions	Generates automatic, easy-to-read performance reports
Wasted advertising budget	Budget keeps flowing to channels without proof of results	Lower ROI and strained cash flow for the business	Shows clear cost-per-lead and cost-per-customer by channel
No visibility into acquisition performance	Non-technical owners have no simple visibility into acquisition costs	Growth and pricing decisions are made without confidence	Presents acquisition performance in a simple, plain-language dashboard

The table below traces how a potential LeadPulse customer moves from first noticing the problem to becoming an active user.

Stage	Mindset	Main Questions	Concerns	Info Needed	How LeadPulse Communicates
1. Problem Awareness	Frustrated by scattered leads	“Why do I keep losing track of leads?”	Is this a common problem, is there a simple fix	Awareness a dedicated tool exists	Relatable educational content on social/blog
2. Solution Research	Actively searching for solutions	“What tools help track leads from multiple channels?”	Complexity, cost, fit for a small business	Overviews and comparisons of options	SEO blog content, comparison guides, social ads
3. Product Evaluation	Narrowing down a shortlist	“Does it integrate? How easy is setup? What's the cost?”	Learning curve, migration effort, hidden costs	Demo videos, feature details, pricing, trial	Demo videos, free trial, illustrative case studies
4. Purchase Decision	Ready to commit, seeking reassurance	“Is this worth it? What if it doesn't work for me?”	Risk of wasted spend, switching cost	Clear pricing, trial terms, onboarding support	Direct offer emails, limited-time trial incentives
5. Customer Adoption	Learning the tool, wants quick wins	“How do I set this up? How do I get value fast?”	Time investment, team adoption	Onboarding guides, tutorials, support access	Onboarding emails, tutorial videos, in-app guidance

TOFU

Top of Funnel — Awareness

Target Audience Mindset:	Aware of the underlying business pain (losing leads, unsure about ad performance) but not yet aware that a solution category exists.
Marketing Objective:	Build awareness of the problem and start positioning LeadPulse as part of the conversation.
Problems Addressed:	Scattered leads across channels and no visibility into which channel performs best.
Suitable Content Types:	Blog posts, infographics, short social videos, and educational carousels.
Example Topics:	“5 Signs Your Business Is Losing Leads Without Knowing It”; “Why Tracking Leads Manually Is Costing You Sales”; “Facebook vs Google Ads: Which Channel Brings Real Customers?”
KPIs:	Reach, impressions, engagement rate, website traffic, content shares.

MOFU

Middle of Funnel — Consideration

Target Audience Mindset:	Aware that solutions exist and actively comparing options.
Marketing Objective:	Position LeadPulse as a credible, simple solution worth shortlisting.
Information Needed:	Feature clarity, ease of use, and how LeadPulse differs from spreadsheets or competitors.
Suitable Content Types:	Comparison guides, webinars, explainer videos, and downloadable checklists.
Example Topics:	“LeadPulse vs Spreadsheet Tracking: What's the Real Cost?”; “How to Choose a Lead Tracking Tool for Your Small Business”; “A Simple Framework to Measure Marketing Channel ROI”
KPIs:	Email sign-ups, lead magnet downloads, webinar attendance, demo requests.

BOFU

Bottom of Funnel — Conversion

Target Audience Mindset:	Ready to decide and looking for a clear reason to act now.
Marketing Objective:	Convert the prospect into a free trial sign-up or paying subscriber.
Conversion Content:	Product demos, free trial access, pricing clarity, and onboarding support.
Offers / CTAs:	“Start Your Free 14-Day Trial”; “Book a Free Demo”; “See LeadPulse in Action”
Example Topics:	“See How LeadPulse Tracks Every Lead in One Dashboard [Demo]”; “LeadPulse Pricing: Plans for Every Small Business”; “Start Tracking Your Leads Today — Free Trial”
KPIs:	Trial sign-ups, demo bookings, conversion rate, cost per acquisition.

Stage	Intent	Problem	Content Type	Example Topic	CTA	Goal
TOFU	Learning / browsing	Losing leads unknowingly	Blog post	“5 Signs Your Business Is Losing Leads”	Read More	Build awareness
TOFU	Curious about ad performance	Unsure which channel works	Short video / Reel	“Facebook vs Google Ads: Which Brings Real Customers?”	Watch Now	Educate & engage
TOFU	General problem research	Manual tracking pain	Infographic	“The True Cost of Manual Lead Tracking”	Share / Save	Increase reach
MOFU	Comparing solutions	Choosing the right tool	Comparison guide	“LeadPulse vs Spreadsheet Tracking”	Download Guide	Generate sign-ups
MOFU	Evaluating fit	Needs proof it's simple	Webinar / video	“How to Measure Marketing ROI Simply”	Register Now	Build trust
MOFU	Researching features	Unsure about integrations	Feature page	“How LeadPulse Connects to FB, Google Ads & WhatsApp”	Learn More	Move toward demo
BOFU	Ready to try	Needs final confidence	Demo video	“See LeadPulse in Action [2-Min Demo]”	Book a Demo	Drive bookings
BOFU	Ready to buy	Wants low-risk entry	Trial landing page	“Start Your Free 14-Day Trial”	Start Free Trial	Convert to sign-up
BOFU	Comparing pricing	Cost / value concern	Pricing page + FAQ	“LeadPulse Pricing: Simple Plans”	Choose Your Plan	Convert to paid

Persona	Priority	Reason	Marketing Approach
Persona 1: Sana Malik (Owner)	Priority 1 — High	Largest addressable segment; feels the pain most directly; simplest sales cycle with a single decision-maker	Direct, simple messaging via social media and WhatsApp, short videos, free-trial campaigns
Persona 2: Bilal Ahmed (Manager)	Priority 2 — Medium	Smaller in number but higher intent, and can drive faster feature-based conversions, though may need owner approval	LinkedIn content, ROI-focused messaging, data-driven email nurture
Persona 3: Ayesha Raza (Founder)	Priority 3 — Lower Initially	Valuable for scaling and referrals, but lower immediate volume and often needs advanced multi-workspace features not yet core	Founder communities, LinkedIn, partnership-style outreach, nurtured for future upsell

Persona 1 (Small Business Owner) should be targeted first because this segment is the largest, feels the core problem most acutely, and involves a single, fast decision-maker. Persona 2 (Marketing Manager) is targeted next to capture higher-value, feature-driven conversions. Persona 3 (Founder/Agency Owner) is treated as a longer-term growth segment once multi-workspace and reporting features are more developed.

Key Customer Insights

All three personas share the same core problem — invisible lead performance scattered across marketing channels — but they differ in vocabulary, technical sophistication, and how they make a purchase decision. Messaging must adapt to each mindset rather than relying on one generic pitch.

Most Important Marketing Opportunity

Positioning LeadPulse as the simple alternative to messy spreadsheets and overly complex CRMs is the clearest opportunity, since this gap is felt across every persona and industry in the ICP.

Recommended Primary Target Audience

Small business owners (Persona 1) as the primary audience, with digital marketing managers (Persona 2) as a closely supporting secondary audience.

Recommended Funnel Strategy

Lead with TOFU educational content that names the lead-tracking pain point, move prospects through MOFU comparison and trust-building content, and close with BOFU free-trial and demo-focused calls-to-action, exactly as mapped in Parts 6 and 7 above.

Foundation for Future Internship Modules

This persona and funnel foundation directly feeds into the next two internship modules: the 30-day organic content calendar will be built around the TOFU, MOFU, and BOFU topics identified here, and the paid ad targeting plus the 5-part email nurture sequence will be structured around the ICP definition and the five-stage buying journey mapped in Part 5. No content for those modules has been created in this document — this project is limited to Customer Persona & Funnel Strategy only.

Note: LeadPulse is a conceptual software product developed for academic and internship marketing strategy purposes.